Loneliness is a global issue in modern societies. Many people, despite living in a connected world, feel isolated. Social media often creates an illusion of companionship, yet deep, meaningful relationships are lacking. Loneliness can lead to anxiety, depression, and even physical health problems. To combat this, we should seek real connections, engage in activities, and support one another. Small acts of kindness, such as a simple conversation or a smile, can make a difference in reducing loneliness. Effort, but effort,

WHEN DARKNESS
KNOCKING THE DOOR

This magazine is a reflection of this term, recording my work and life. I hope to use it to reflect my love and gratitude for everything around me. And I want to give feedback on my exploration of hip-hop, film and other my interests. Again, thanks to the friends I met in London and the street scene in London for helping me complete this shooting, because of them everything here is romantic and fun. I put them in the magazine as good memories. Besides, it is like my original intention. Hope it can encourage me to try bravely in what I have passion on, enjoy the world and always be the person who is brave, having curiosity and chasing the freedom. (By the way this my teacher Suzanne's favorite front and I like it too)
